1. Purpose of the Competition

Interviewing and advising comprise a vital part of a lawyer's work. It is often assumed that lawyers have the listening and questioning skills required to conduct an effective interview with a client. Unfortunately, however, this is not true of every lawyer. Thus, through this Competition, it is intended to inculcate among students of law, a greater knowledge of and a spirit of enquiry into the preventive law and counselling functions of law practice. The Competition also encourages students of law to develop interviewing, planning and analytical skills necessary to build and maintain a relationship between a lawyer and his/her client.
