ABOUT PRO BONO CLUB

The Pro Bono club was established at Maharashtra National Law University Mumbai to provide equal access to justice for all citizens, a fundamental right of every citizen. The Pro-Bono Club works on the 'Assisted Model' in collaboration with the government and private organizations. The legal community is also well aware that under the current legislative structure, access to legal services is a highly privileged right. As a result, many persons from disadvantaged, underdeveloped, marginalized, and vulnerable areas cannot obtain the necessary legal information and support.

This Club will combine university students' legal and academic skills with ventures and projects to ensure that justice reaches even the most disadvantaged and vulnerable communities and people. The Pro Bono Club's objectives include: Enrolling University students in the Nyaya Bandhu (Pro-Bono Legal Services Club) Programme; Assisting private and public bodies and individuals, such as Government Departments and lawyers, in carrying out pro-bono work.

ABOUT THE SYMPOSIUM

Criminal law is going to witness a sea change with the introduction of the Criminal Procedure (Identification) Act, of 2022. The Act has steered the jurisprudence regarding criminal identification and criminal procedure in India.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in a plethora of judgments has upheld the fundamental right of privacy, integrity and autonomy. For instance, in the famous judgment of K.S Puttaswamy v Union of India (2017) the Apex Court upheld the right to privacy under Article 21 of the Constitution.

Further, the decision of Selvi vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) held that the tests such as Brain-mapping and Narco-analysis are unconstitutional in nature as they are against Article 20(3) of the Constitution of India, i.e., the right against self-incrimination.

Understanding the viability of scientific tests such as Narco analysis, DNA profiling, taking biological samples, and maintaining criminal databases, among other issues, will be of vital importance for investigating agencies, lawyers, forensic experts, judges, academicians, and students; it will aid in the criminal justice system.

In light of these precedents and the much-debated provisions of the Criminal Procedure (Identification) Act, of 2022 Maharashtra National Law University Mumbai is conducting a National Symposium on Criminal Procedure (Identification) Act, 2022.

Through this symposium, we attempt to deliberate upon the ever going juxtaposition of individual liberty with societal interest. As this area is comparatively niche in criminal jurisprudence, it is important to have quality academic discussions on the same.

This Symposium will host a galaxy of experts including Cabinet Minister of Gujarat Shri Rajendra Suryaprasad Trivedi, Special Public Prosecutor Padma Shri Adv. Ujjwal Nikam, Mr. Anmol Deshmukh, Forensic Expert, Government of Maharashtra, and Adv. Bharat Chugh, Advocate Supreme Court of India.

Since Criminal Procedure (Identification) Act, 2022 is both a concern of future research and abuse of technology, the Centre for Advanced Legal Studies, Training and Research and the Centre for Information Communication Technology and Law at Maharashtra National Law University Mumbai have collaborated to organize the 1st ever National Symposium at the University.
